Black Tragedy Hangs Over Boston After Fire

Scenes at Boston Night Club Fire in Which 477 Died

DEATH TOLL IN CLUB DISASTER RISES TO 477

Prankster's Joke Believed To Have Been Cause Of Deadly Flame

MAJORITY DIE—IN PANIC

Few Exits To Building Are Blocked By Struggling Men And Women

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Black tragedy hung like a pall over Boston today in the wake of the disastrous fire which in flash swept the fashionable Cocoanut Grove night club late Saturday night, causing an estimated death toll of 477. At least 185 persons were injured. Of the dead 355 have been identified and 122 bodies are awaiting identification.

A prankster's "joke" was believed to have been the cause of the tragedy. As official investigations got under way, a 16-year-old bus boy, Stanley F. Tomaszewski, told the police he inadvertently started the catastrophe by holding a lighted match too near an artificial palm tree, while replacing an electric light bulb in the ceiling of the night club. The bulb had been removed as a gag by one of the merry-makers.

It was the worst fire disaster in America since the Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago in 1902 which cost 602 lives.

Hysterical Panic

Young girls who came to the softly-lighted Cocoanut Grove night spot in evening clothes died clumped in the arms of their male escorts as the burst of flames quickly consumed the time-lapsed trappings.

Wild, hysterical panic broke out. Yet many of the patrons acted gallantly and heroically in the terrible emergency.

Many of the victims may never be identified.

Young Tomaszewski was nervous as he told the police how the fire started. The police quoted him as saying:

"I was in the Melody Lounge in the basement when one of the patrons removed an electric light bulb from the ceiling as a joke. A waiter told me to replace the bulb. The room was too dark."

Match Starts Fire

"I got a chair and stood on it, lighting a match so I could see what I was doing. While I screwed the bulb into the socket with one hand, I held the match too near one of the phony palm trees. Suddenly one of the palm trees burst into flames. I was badly frightened. I dropped from the chair and ran."

Panic, rather than the direct effect of the fire, caused the loss of most lives in the fire, according to the inquest testimony of five high ranking officers of the Boston fire department.

The blocking of the few exits by struggling, panic-stricken men and women, contributed heavily to the large death toll. Deputy Fire Chief John McDonough revealed that a small door that might have been used as an exit from the club was found locked.

HITLER CALLS HIGH COMMAND TO CONFERENCE

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Semi-official advice reaching Bern today said that Adolf Hitler is reported to have convened an extraordinary meeting of the German high command at Berchtesgaden to discuss future operations in Africa.

A dispatch to the London Evening Standard said also that it was reported a conference is being held simultaneously at Rome with General Nehring, Marshal Milsh and commanders of the axis air force in Tunisia attending.

Well-informed Rome circles, the dispatch added, openly predict the withdrawal of axis forces from Tunisia to Tripoli.

ALBANIA URGED TO GIVE BUM'S RUSH TO ITALY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today called on the conquered people of the tiny Italian controlled state of Albania to rise up and kick Premier Benito Mussolini's Fascists out of their country.

The secretary told his press conference that it ought to be the high duty of every Albanian to shoot on sight every Italian soldier he finds in his country.

U. S., Britain Seek to Wean Italians From Benito and Henchmen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The United States and Great Britain today are engaged in an intensive campaign to wean the Italian people away from Premier Benito Mussolini and his Fascist henchmen.

Through shortwave radio broadcasts to Italy from North Africa, the United States and the British Isles, this country and Britain are striving to encourage the Italian people to withdraw their loyalty from the man who led them into this war with such unhappy consequences for their country.

While it is not anticipated that the Italian people will have the strength to revolt and successfully free themselves from the German yoke, it is hoped that the Anglo-American campaign will encourage them to welcome the allied armies of liberation when they finally land on Italian soil.

Furthermore, the Italian people are being told through the shortwave broadcasts that the lenity with which they will be dealt by the victorious allies depends on the extent of resistance, passive or otherwise, which they now show against continuation of Italy's active participation in the war.

The Italian people are also being told that if they wish to escape (Continued on Page Two)

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well it isn't more than a couple of weeks ago that you couldn't open your trap without some official denouncer roaring "are you trying to split the United Nations?"

Then the official denouncer would add bitingly, "Goebbels couldn't do better."

Well, the British are getting restless about our tieup with Darlan and they're mumbling under their breath and even talking out loud and our official denouncers are as quiet as little mice.

Our official denouncers don't accuse the British of "trying to split the United Nations" and they don't get off their favorite stinger—"Goebbels couldn't do better."

And it must be because the British are British and you can talk loud only to your own people.

We think the British are wrong. "Ike" Eisenhower in Africa knows more about the situation in Africa than the British in London.

But we don't deny for a minute the right of the British to ask questions and to criticize.

And it would be nice if the official denouncers would recognize the same right in our own people without seeing a Goebbels in every phrase.

Thought for the day: Any questions?

CIRCUS ANIMALS BURNED

FRENCH, GERMAN TROOPS CLASH

Soldiers Oppose Hitler Plan For Nation, But Are Rendered Helpless

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Numerous incidents involving French and German troops were reported today from various military posts in France as the Nazi army took full control of the country following scuttling of the French fleet at Toulon.

There was every indication that the Vichy government is now embarking on a program designed to bring France into full civil and military collaboration with Germany.

While many French officers and troops were reported opposing Adolf Hitler's plan for "demilitarization" of France, they appeared to be helpless. Arrests and internments were multiplying fast under orders of Robert Bosquet, secretary general for police, who takes his orders directly from Pierre Laval.

Among those reported arrested and presumably taken to Germany are General Maurice Gamelin, Rene Massigli, former French ambassador to Rome, and former Premier Leon Blum and Edouard Deladier.

Special measures have been taken at the frontiers to prevent disbanding soldiers from crossing into Switzerland or Spain.

A London Daily Mail dispatch from Madrid said Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler had arrived in Vichy to discuss with Pierre Laval final terms of a declaration binding France militarily with the axis.

Laval ordered all skilled workers in France's demobilized armed forces to report immediately for service in German war factories, the dispatch said.

ADVANCE OF AG WAGES NOT TO BE HALTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt today issued new regulations for the office of economic stabilization, turning control of agricultural labor over to Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, and permitting farm wage rates to rise unhampered until further notice.

In defining agriculture labor, the President's regulations specify that it should include anyone working on farms whose salary is less than $2,400 a year.

FARMERS FACE GREATEST TASK IN U. S. HISTORY

Record Breaking Production Goals Set To Meet Big Demand In 1943

WICKARD GIVES FIGURES

One-Fourth Of Produce To Go To Soldiers And Allied Nations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—American farmers today faced the task of producing a food supply next year far greater than any annual output in history as the agriculture department announced the nation's crop production goals for 1943.

The production goals, which exceed the record-breaking 1942 output, were designed to meet lend-lease and military demands for increased food and meat supplies. Under next year's program, one-fourth of the U. S. food and meat production will go to American soldiers and their allies.

In Front Line

In announcing the new goals, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, warned the nation's farmers that "the role of American food in the war of strategy puts the farmer in the front line."

Wickard, calling for total mobilization of America's rich farm resources to meet total war, told the men who increased food production this year 12 percent above 1941's high figures that they will have to boost their goals to higher levels.

For U. S. soldiers and consumers, for the United Nations and the peoples of other countries to be fed by America, American farmers were asked to boost:

Milk production by two percent to 122,000,000,000 pounds; meats by 16 percent to 25,700,000,000 pounds; chickens by 28 percent to 4,000,000,000 pounds; turkeys by 15 percent to 560,000,000 pounds; eggs by 8 percent to 4,780,000,000 eggs.

Corn Increased

Corn by 4 percent throughout the nation and 5 percent in "commercial corn area," to a total corn acreage of 95,000,000 acres; dry beans by 18 percent; dry peas by 25 percent; potatoes by 10 percent to 3,160,000 acres; and peanuts by 10 percent to 5,500,000 acres.

The new program calls for hog production to be increased 15 percent to 121,000,000 head and seeks a eight percent increase in the production of grain sorghums.

Under the new goals, farmers will produce what Wickard called the "minimum requirements for food produced in this country"—the smallest amount America can grow and still fulfill her foreign, military and domestic obligations.

What farmers will grow "will reflect the need for foods of most value in the wartime diet," Wickard (Continued on Page Two)

INSPECTIONS IN CHICAGO BALK FIRE DISASTERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Michael J. Corrigan, new fire commissioner, was one of the firemen who answered the alarm 39 years ago at Chicago's Iroquois theater fire, a disaster surpassing the number of fatalities even the Cocoanut Grove night club fire in Boston. Corrigan said today:

"The Iroquois fire was the worst from the standpoint of the loss of life that Chicago or any other city in the country ever suffered. It was responsible for the installation of efficient and unceasing fire prevention measures in all public places."

"A catastrophe such as that in Boston hardly could happen in Chicago today. In theaters and night clubs here, daily inspections are made by firemen. Only fireproof decorations are permitted. There must be sufficient exits in proportion to the capacity of each place."

Italians Face Hard Decision

Oust Fascist Leaders Or Suffer Consequences, Churchill Says

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The people of Italy were faced today with the choice of ousting their Fascist leaders and signing a separate peace with the Allies or suffering what British Prime Minister Winston Churchill promised would be a "prolonged, scientific, shattering air attack," to bring the Italian people to their knees.

The prime minister, in a worldwide broadcast on the eve of his 68th birthday which he celebrated today, declared bluntly that once the axis is blasted from Tunisia, Italy will be the focal point for devastating Allied aerial assaults.

"It is for the Italian people—forty millions of them—to say whether they want this terrible thing to happen to them or not."

The Royal Air Force had lent point to his word only a few hours before, striking out across the Alps from bases in England to deliver a new devastating assault against the city of Turin, greatest industrial city in all Italy. The R. A. F. for the first time employed four-ton devastation bombs in the raid on Turin, the second within eight days. Turin was bombed again last night.

The only immediate comment forthcoming from the Italians was made by the Italian Stefani news agency which said in a broadcast from Rome that "the nation remains perfectly calm and unimpressed by the threat of new trials."

GRUBB JAILED TO THINK OVER COURT DEFIANCE

John W. Grubb, 28, South Washington street, was sentenced Monday to 10 days in the county jail to "think it over" when he appeared before Judge Meeker Terwilliger on a contempt of court hearing.

Grubb had been ordered to pay Mary Overly Grubb, Pleasant street, who is suing him for divorce, $50 for expenses.

Telling the court the entire case was "a miscarriage of justice," Grubb said he would never pay any part of the amount.

He was placed in custody of Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

Grubb is charged in his wife's petition with becoming a member of the Jehovah's Witness sect in an effort to evade service in the U. S. army. She said that she had not been aware of his belief until a few months ago.

SALE OF HEALTH SEALS MOVING WELL IN COUNTY

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap executive secretary of the Pickaway county Tuberculosis and Health Association, said Monday that the drive to sell Christmas seals is moving along very well. The campaign continues from Thanksgiving until Christmas.

Miss Dunlap said that $253.90 of the quota of $1,700 has been received and that many persons who have always contributed are doubling their contributions this year.

AVERAGE SNORE WAY TOO LOUD, EXPERTS CLAIM

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 30.—If anyone who is afflicted has wondered how loudly he snores, the Wisconsin state medical society had the answer today.

"From studies it has been discovered that the average snorer creates as much noise as a busy office or an old automobile," the society said.

"If there is a snorer in the family he should be examined by the family doctor."

Clean Sweep Of North Africa Brought Closer As Rail Junction Falls

BULLETIN

MOSCOW, Nov. 30.—German troops reeled backward under the impact of three gigantic Soviet counter-offensives North, South and West of Moscow today.

A new Nazi defense line, hastily erected on the Don after the Germans had been dislodged from their positions northwest of Stalingrad, was smashed by the advancing Russians and important new gains were recorded on the central front West of Moscow and farther to the North.

By International News Service

Huge royal air force bombers blasted objectives in vital war production areas of northern Italy during the night, underscoring with bombs the words of Prime Minister Winston Churchill who offered Italy the choice between peace with the United Nations or the prospect of continuous raids.

The latest RAF assault against the industrial area came less than 24 hours after four-ton devastation bombs were rained on Turin, Italy's armament center, along with 100,000 incendiaries.

Turin again was among the objectives bombed last night. Returning pilots reported that fires set on Saturday were still burning.

Railway communications in Belgium also were bombed during the night. Two British aircraft are missing.

Last night's attack, carried out by only a small force of bombers, was made in bad weather.

300,000 Flee City

Nearly half of Turin's 600,000 population was said to have evacuated the city prior to the latest attack as a result of the terrific battering to which the great industrial center has been subjected.

Neutral diplomats arriving at Istanbul, a dispatch to the Daily Express said, report that the chaotic internal situation in Italy has grown worse in the last few weeks as a result of the series of terrific RAF raids against Genoa, Turin, Milan and other centers in Northern Italy.

These sources said it was too soon yet to prophesy the immediate collapse of Italy or her withdrawal from the war.

The prestige of Premier Benito Mussolini was said, however, to have been shattered. If Duce receives daily orders from the German ambassador to Rome, it was said.

Russians Advance

In Russia, still the most active war front, the Red army continued its steamroller offensive on two fronts. A late communique announced Russian troops had broken through a new German defense line hurriedly set up northwest of Stalingrad, while Red forces on the central front, west of Moscow, were rapidly pushing toward the old Latvian border, smashing German resistance at all points.

One thousand more German troops were killed in the Stalingrad region when the Russians pierced new Nazi lines set up on the eastern bank of the Don.

Meanwhile, the day when North Africa will be swept clean of axis forces, predicted for the near future by Prime Minister Churchill, was brought closer by the capture of a vital railway junction 12 miles from Tunis, straddling the sole rail connection between the capital city and the axis naval base of Bizerte.

Final Assault Nears

The final assault for possession of Tunis and Bizerte, the two main axis bases, appeared imminent. Morocco radio reported that a combined attack of American, British and French troops on the enemy defense are around the city.

WHITE HOUSE STILL QUIET ON CABINET SHIFT

Big Four Of Congress May Get Information At Parley Monday

OTHER SHIFTS LIKELY

President Calls Meet For Discussion Of National Internal Problems

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Apparently well-founded reports persisted in Washington today that President Roosevelt would carry out a major re-shuffling of his cabinet, but there was no confirmation from the White House as the chief executive prepared to discuss internal problems with his congressional leaders.

No White House comment on the cabinet changes has been forthcoming since last Friday, when Press Secretary Stephen Early quoted the President as saying "I have the matter under study" and have reached no decision.

It was assumed that when the democratic "big four" of congress confer with Mr. Roosevelt today, he will give them information as to his plans, which, according to reports, involve the shift of Interior Secretary Ickes to the post of Secretary of Labor, with the war manpower commission and the selective service system brought under his direction.

Invited to the White House meeting were Vice-President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Senate Majority Leader Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormack.

According to these reports—from sources in a position to know the President's mind, Paul V. McNutt, now manpower chief, would be given cabinet status with the post of secretary of interior. Madame Perkins, now labor secretary would be removed from the cabinet and given the position of federal security agency director—the other of the two positions now held by McNutt.

As reports of the impending changes circulated through official Washington, other agency shifts and consolidations were reported also, which would make the changes the most basic and sweeping in the ten years since Mr. Roosevelt has taken up the reins of government. It would constitute the first major cabinet shake-up in more than a decade of democratic party government in Washington.

Another reported shift—similarly well-founded—would place Ickes at the head of a consolidated agency which would be given power to deal with all phases of the complex oil situation. Ickes, now petroleum coordinator as well as interior department secretary, is known to advocate such a step.

It was reported that an executive order carrying out this consolidation has been drawn by budget bureau officials and is awaiting only presidential signature to be put into action.

The first news of German naval activity in waters west of Australia was contained in a communique from allied headquarters in Australia, which announced the capture of 78 crew members of an 8,000-ton auxiliary vessel after it had been scuttled. The ship, a converted liner or freighter, was believed to be a supply ship for axis U-boats preying on allied shipping lanes in the Indian ocean.

The repulse of another Jap attempt to reinforce the beleaguered Jap garrison holding the Buna-Gona beachhead resulted in the probable loss of two more Jap destroyers, the communique said. Flying fortresses set them afire off the 40-square-mile battlefield in northeastern New Guinea.

Elsewhere on New Guinea, allied airmen blasted the Jap base at Lae in a series of devastating raids that destroyed installations and Jap aircraft on the ground.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Circleville rationing board is in need of volunteers to work in the city hall offices during processing of fuel oil coupons. Twelve or more volunteers are needed during the next few days. Rationers, however, do not want any persons who are helping with gasoline rationing to leave this work until it is finished.

Record Breaking Production Goals Set To Meet Big Demand In 1943

and said. Milk, meats and eggs, dry beans and peas to provide proteins, vegetables high in mineral value, and poultry to supplement other meats will be produced.

The production sought for 1943 will not necessarily mean an improvement in the consumers' food situation, it was pointed out. There will not necessarily be more food available for the ordinary American.

Heavier Diets Needed

However, it will not be a "normal" year, agriculture department sources said. Americans in general will be working harder than ever before and will want and need heavier diets. It was explained. They will have more money to spend on fewer consumer items and will want to spend a greater percentage of their salaries on food.

The allies, through lend-lease, will claim a greater portion of America's foodstuffs. U. S. and United Nations soldiers will need more food as offensive action spreads, agriculture officials pointed out.

Livestock production goals, for example, are "nearly one-third greater than the amount normally consumed in the country. Military and lend-lease requirements," the department said, "will take about one-fourth of the total supply."

In a "normal" year, there would be an appreciable meat surplus for the public.

The agriculture department has already warned consumers it will be hard to get "non-essential" truck crops next year. Production of Winter crops—cucumbers, cantaloupes, cauliflower, egg plants, water-melons, bleached celery, head lettuce, green peppers, asparagus, artichokes—will be cut to 70 to 85 percent of this year's crop.

NEGRO YOUTHS ACCEPTED FOR ARMY SERVICE

Acceptance of two Negro youths and rejection of the third by the Army was announced Monday by Pickaway county Selective Service board. Charles L. Jackson and Gilbert G. Thomas, both of Circleville, have passed all physical requirements, while Clifford Henry, also of Circleville has been rejected.

The youths filled a colored quota assigned for November. They went before the Army medical team last Friday. Enlistment of Freddie Alexander Mouser of Derby at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and rejection of Sam Junior Watkins of Michigan, transferred from the local board, were also disclosed by the board. Watkins was registered here, but his file was transferred to a Michigan board.

Italy's present plight was intended, according to authoritative sources here, to assure the Italian people that Great Britain is prepared to join the United States in showing lenity to Italy if the Italian people make an effort to redeem their honor by disowning Mussolini and resisting the Germans.

The Anglo-American campaign also is intended to encourage developments of an organized underground movement in Italy. It is felt that the redemption of Italy should come from within the country as well as from the allied forces.

It is for this reason that the American government has so far avoided sponsoring the free Italian movement in this country. It wants to give the Italian people in Italy an opportunity to take the lead in helping to liberate themselves from both Mussolini and the Germans.

NINE BILLIONS IN 32 DAYS IS TREASURY GOAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The treasury today opened a victory fund campaign to borrow $9,000,000,000 in 32 days from the American people and banks to help pay for a war that is costing the nation $6,000,000,000 a month.

The $9,000,000,000 asked for is $3,000,000,000 more than was raised in the fourth liberty bond campaign of World War I, the previous high for government financing.

The American people, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau said, "are being asked to invest $9,000,000,000 in victory and freedom."

Offered to the U. S. people, banks, institutions and corporations are:

1. War bonds ranging in price from $25 to $1,000.
2. "Victory two-and-one-halfs," treasury bonds issued in denominations of 500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000 and, as registered bonds, of $1,000,000, and available for sale to all but commercial banks.
3. One and 3/4 per cent treasury bonds which cannot be redeemed before June 15, 1948, in denominations of $50, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000 and, as registered bonds, of $1,000,000.

Seven-eighths per cent one-year treasury certificates of indebtedness available in denominations of $100, $5,000, $10,000 and $100,000.

To sell the new issues, the treasury has mobilized 50,000 bond and insurance salesmen in victory fund committees.

BLACK TRAGEDY HANGING OVER DISASTER SCENE

PANIC TAKES GREAT TOLL

Many Of Victims Of Worst
Fire Since 1902 May Never Be Identified

type called a "flash," or quick-spreading fire.

Men and women of prominence and wealth, young college students of distinguished families and noted figures in theatrical, sports and financial circles were among those who met death.

Among the identified dead was James Jenkins, young Harvard student, son of Colonel Walter Jenkins, commander at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Miss Helen Walsh, of Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., a Radcliffe college student and daughter of the president of the Equitable Life Insurance company, was also identified as a victim.

Finds Girl In Morgue
After anguished hours of search in morgues and hospitals, Edward J. McCormack, of South Boston, brother of Congressman John McCormack, found the body of his 20-year old daughter, Mary, at a mortuary. She had set out with a party of friends to spend a happy evening.

A Yale senior, Charles M. Fauci, Jr., of Wellesley, son of a wealthy liquor dealer, was identified by the grieving father. The young man would have been graduated in a few months and planned to enter the army.

Carl Thorn, of Quincy, vice-president of the United States Trust company and prominent in masonic circles, also was numbered among the victims.

A nationally known film executive, Herman Rifkin, head of Monogram pictures, of Hollywood, was among the known dead, as was Joseph A. Boratyn, of Whitinsville, Mass., a former Holy Cross football star.

Capacity Crowd
A capacity crowd of nearly 1,000 persons was in the Gay Night Club when the fire broke out and spread with devastating speed. Flames raged from the basement bar—the Melody Lounge—up the stairs to the main room where the bulk of the merry-makers were congregated.

The blaze spread so rapidly that virtually all of the patrons in the dine and dance spot were trapped. A young girl, her clothing ablaze, rushed up the stairway from the lounge shouting: "Fire!" Pandemonium broke loose. Couples who had just come off the dance floor made a headlong dash for the exits. It was a few minutes before 10:45 p. m., and the floor show was about to start. In fact, Mickey Alpert, the band leader and master of ceremonies, stood on the platform waiting to direct "The Star Spangled Banner."

Exit Blocked
Women and men tried to get through the revolving door front entrance to the club, but they found it jammed with a fighting, mauling mass of humanity. Agonized shrieks from women rent the air. Finally, the door was broken open only to become blocked by piled up bodies.

The patrons became panic stricken. They rushed about badly, knocking over tables and clashing at each other in a mad frenzy to escape. They tried the rear exit and found it blocked too. Some of those who managed to fight their way out of the blazing inferno were terribly burned and almost nude. Some collapsed in the street.

Marshall Cook, 19-year-old chorus boy, saved almost the entire cast of thirty-six entertainers by slamming the upstairs dressing room door in the face of the on-rushing flames. He led them out of a window to a nearby roof from which they came down a ladder to safety.

Terrible Sight
"It was a terrible sight," said William Ladd, a patron in the club at the time. "Women cried and shrieked, men yelled madly and everybody raced pell mell for the exits. It seemed everybody wanted to be first to get out."

Charles ("Buck") Jones, movie star featured in cowboy pictures, was among those injured. Jones, who resides in Van Nuys, Calif., went to the club accompanied by his press agent, Martin Sheridan, former Providence, R. I., newspaperman, and Mrs. Sheridan. Jones suffered severe burns and was taken to Massachusetts General hospital where his condition was reported today as "poor." Sheridan was also injured and his wife is listed as missing.

Acts Of Heroism
Acts of gallantry and heroism were numerous in spite of the panic. Frank Balzini, the night club's head waiter, died a hero's death. When the flames burst forth he dashed to the revolving door at the main entrance. Finding it blocked by a mass of struggling men and women he forced the door open and made it possible for scores to escape.

Children's Dental Unit Visits County

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway county health commissioner, announced Monday arrival of the children's dental unit of the Ohio Department of Health for a two weeks stay in Pickaway county.

Dr. R. H. Markwith, state director of health, has assigned two dentists to make a complete survey of all children in the first four grades of the city and centralized schools to determine their dental needs. The examinations are made in a trailer, shown above, which is a complete dental office on wheels.

Findings will be recorded on suitable forms and filed in the county health office. Cards will also be sent to parents urging them to send the child to the family dentist for corrections.

This service is furnished by the Ohio Department of Health at the request of local health authorities to stimulate interest among children to take better care of their teeth. Drs. J. T. Fulton and I. F. Henry will be in charge of the dental unit here and will be available for programs and talks during their stay in this area.

Dr. Fulton will give an illustrated talk on "Dental Care" at the regular meeting of the Pickaway County Medical Society at noon, Friday, December 4. The dentists of the county will be invited to attend this meeting.

Tell Abbott, wife and daughter Joyce Ann were here from their home in Cleveland spending a couple of days with Mr. Abbott's parents, Harry and Mrs. Abbott on Scioto street. They returned home yesterday. Tell for a long while resided in Middletown but a few months ago was removed to Cleveland by the firm he represents and which company is engaged in heavy, long distance transportation.

Harry Reese, one of the Harrison township trustees, told us Saturday that he has just received a shipment of government, grave marker stones which are to be placed at the graves of War service soldiers buried in Harrison township cemetery. Among the soldier graves there, there is one of the war of 1812. The board of trustees will be pleased to know through relatives of the names of any soldiers buried in this cemetery, and they as officials, will see to it that the graves are properly marked. The trustees at a recent meeting purchased from M. M. Hott, 85 evergreens which is now being placed in the cemetery.

The construction of that oil conveying pipe line mentioned the other day is getting its first pipe in car load lots delivered here, is now getting away to a real start. Several of the employees on the job have lodging and the eats here in town, and if they are of the friendly build, we'll be telling more about it in a day or so. Saw one of them carrying a small youngster and it is a sure thing but that he is one that knows what it is all about.

"Mike", as he is best known here, has been athletic

THE WORLD'S FRIEND

UNCLE SAM, now engaged primarily in hunting down the Hun, is also operating as a friend and neighbor of all men and nations of good will. It is a large area to cover, and many Americans have had misgivings about it, but so far it seems to work beyond expectations.

That operation in Africa, for example. A vast continent, half of which was at least technically hostile, or in doubtful hands, has fallen to the United Nations like a tree of ripe plums. In one small area there is hostility, but that is being gradually mopped up.

Not only in Africa, but in every other continent, the name America now seems to be a magic word. Our current prestige is so great, and confidence in our good will and unselfishness so widespread, that it is a solemn thing to think about. Government, army and people must watch their step and be very careful that all this confidence shall not be abused. If our government tried to profit selfishly from the war, or to support selfish efforts on the part of our allies, there would be disillusionment abroad and shame at home, with possible loss of the fruits of victory.

WHEN STATESMEN DISAGREE

PRESIDENT Roosevelt, who operates the government with a rather large and loose outfit of assistants and advisers, explained to the news men the other day that these helpers were supposed to agree on vital policies. When asked what he would do in case they should fail to agree, he replied that he would put them in a room together and let them stay there until they did come to agreement.

Now it happens that this very procedure was adopted once on a time by business men. It was early in the last war, when the automotive industry was much more primitive than it is now. Leaders of the industry got together and agreed that a supreme and uniform gasoline motor was needed to win the war. They agreed also to pool their knowledge and patents, and to remain in conference behind closed doors until the whole problem was worked out and the motor was blue-printed. They later reported to have done it, too. It was called the Liberty Motor, and it evidently served the purpose.

Whether the plan would work with war policies is another question.

Plenty of Americans, if "the world was all before them, where to choose," would vote next time for Jan Smuts of South Africa.

It seems a pity to send those boys to the front, but when we want a major action, we generally get it from the minors.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

"JUNIOR GESTAPO" LISTENS

WASHINGTON—More and more certain Washington bureaucrats are adopting the practices of the dictators which we are supposed to be fighting against—particularly the Gestapo methods.

Most people won't believe it, but the Army and Navy today have set up a system of recording telephone calls of their own employees and of civilian calls to an extent which staggers the imagination.

All telephone conversations from the Navy to any city outside of Washington are taken down on records. This is true also with a part of the Army and with the War Production Board.

But recently Army-Navy intelligence agents have extended the practice even to a lot of local calls, including those of newspapermen, and of any Army-Navy officer suspected of going higher up to friends in the cabinet.

If, for instance, an Army or Navy officer reports to civilian friends in high places about any injustice or inefficiency inside the armed forces, the "gestapo system" goes after him immediately.

It is against the law to tap telephone wires unless done by the FBI to detect spies or sabotage, and J. Edgar Hoover is extremely careful. His men, with long and careful training, do not infringe on civil liberties unless there is real evidence.

But the amateur sleuths of the Army and Navy, most of them recruited from the walks of socialite real estate operators, brokers, and blue bloods, sometimes indulge in using records of telephone conversations to satisfy personal grudges, influence promotions, or just for the fun of sleuthing.

The amateur sleuths of the Donovan Committee, many of them former socialites appears from the State Department, follow the same practices as the super-dicks in the Army and Navy.

NOTE: To what extremes Military Intelligence carries its suspicions is illustrated by the fact that one soldier, born in this country, whose uncle was shot by the Nazis in an occupied country for refusing to divulge information to the enemy, is now relegated to a virtual detention camp, though recommended highly by all with whom he has served.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The Rockefeller Committee's use of the Natural Museum of Modern Art, an adjunct of the Rockefeller family, to produce Good Neighbor motion pictures may be in for some Congressional scrutiny. ### Shortage of Medical Manpower Due to War

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A LOOMING shortage in manpower for the war effort has come to my attention within the last week. In 1940 when the draft law was passed, we had four classes of medical students in our medical schools, already at some stage in the progress of their education.

The Army and Navy very wisely exempted these people from the draft, allowed them to finish their education and take their hospital internship. New freshman classes were enrolled in the Fall of 1941 and when the tempo of medical education was changed, we enrolled a class of freshman students in the Spring of 1942.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"Frozen" for War Service

These students are all "frozen" for military duty. Many of them are now in the service, but at the present time there are a number of young men of draft age who under normal circumstances would study medicine. A great many of these are afraid of the cry of "lacker" if they go into medical study now because it means they will be in civilian occupation for at least five years. Some of the more forward-looking medical colleges have already selected and frozen college students who will enter medical school in the Spring of 1943 and 1944, but that still leaves a large group unprovided for.

The problem is a very serious one because it means that possibly for several years after 1948 medical schools will graduate a very much smaller class of physicians and this, added to the shortage which already exists in military as well as civilian medical manpower, will be a serious hazard.

It would be foolish to point out this problem without having some suggestion as to how to deal with it and after thinking it over, I have the following tentative plan to propose. In the first place, women should be encouraged as much as possible to study medicine.

In many schools as much as 5 per cent of the student personnel is made up by women and there is no reason why this shouldn't be increased to 10 or 20 per cent. I believe the Surgeon General's Office, working with the American Medical Association and the faculties of colleges, should select young men who have a natural bent towards medicine (for instance, the sons of physicians) and designate them for medical training.

Should Have Uniforms

As soon as the medical student is signed up by the Army or Navy, he is given a commission in the Reserve Corps. But I believe that besides this, medical students selected by the Surgeon General's Office should be put in uniform and given a rank and pay commensurate with their standing in school; for example, the rank and pay of a private in the first year, a corporal in the second year, a sergeant in the third year, a top sergeant in the senior year and a second lieutenant in the intern year.

The uniform will protect them from the cry of "lacker" and the pay will solve a very serious problem that occurs to many medical students: of working in their vacations in order to pay their way through school. There are about 20,000 medical students in the medical schools in the United States at present so that this would not make a very serious assault on the Treasury.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Reader:—When one's sputum culture contains both hemolytic streptococcus, hemolytic staphylococcus aureus, Friedlander's bacillus, alpha hemolytic streptococcus and a mixture of anaerobic organisms, what would you say was wrong with the patient?

Answer: The mouth, nose, throat and hence, the sputum, normally contain a large number of germs. Among them are all those you have named. In other words, this is not necessarily a sign of illness of any kind. Nobody can say anything is the matter with a patient from a report such as this.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three War Relieving Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Embattled Love

BY LORENA CARLETON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS:
San Francisco's fog brings the chance meeting of PAIGE SHELTON, whose sweetheart has just been killed fighting for the Allies, and RESTWICK (RUSTY) CARNES III, wealthy descendant of early Hawaiian settlers.

CHAPTER THREE
WITHOUT even glancing toward Rusty Carnes, Paige swung past him and swiftly headed for the street exit. But the man was directly back of her.

"What's the matter with you?" he demanded, still using the offensively clear voice. No longer was it muddled, thick and impenetrable as the San Francisco fog.

"Leave me alone!" the girl said in a tense whisper. She was shrinking as much from the too brazen voice as from the man himself.

"I certainly will not!" He pinned her against a window of one of the lobby shops, blocking her escape with an arm on each side of her.

Doggishly Paige kept her gaze from his. She stared down into the shop at a painting propped low in the glass window. Peaches, grapes, pears, apples, all piled against a silken, bright red, black-seeded watermelon. The irrelevance of the old-fashioned painting, in that town of frighteningly modern trends, fascinated Paige. And saved her from having to look at her strange red-haired companion.

"Were you by any chance trying to make a fool of me?"

The man's question brought the color up into Paige's unruddied cheeks. "I was trying to keep from making a fool of myself," she replied.

"But you were walking out on me." Disappointment was noticeable in the tone of his voice. And in his face when Paige turned to look at him.

"Yes."

"But why? Why, after you've come this far?"

"Because I can't go through with it."

"And who is making an antiquated statement now?" From their planted positions on the shop window Restwick Carnes' hands dropped to Paige's fur-clad shoulders. He shook her harshly. "Don't lose your spunk. Don't be a piker. We've both been jilted. Now we're going to make them pay for it. We're going to make them suffer as much as we."

The girl's gray eyes filled with golden flakes and then with the brightness of tears. "Oh, please," she recommended.

The red-haired man took her hand and gave it a rough, persuasive yank. "Come on." His manner was disgusted and impatient as he led her out into the crisp sunshine. "Where are you taking me?"

"To the City Hall to get the license, of course."

"No." She made an abrupt stop. "I won't go. I don't have to. You can take care of it. Go on. My name is Paige Shelton. I'm 22 years old. I like caramel nut sundae and wear a size 12 dress." She made a move toward the left. "I'll wait for you."

"Oh, no you don't!" The man's fingers tightened about her arm. "You're going to stick right with me."

"Surely you don't think I'm going to run away?"

He pointed out, "You were when I caught you."

"But I'm promising not to now. That makes a difference." Again she made a slight move. "I'll be waiting for you there on the bridge when you come back."

And she was. Leaning upon her elbows on the railing, watching the agitated Truckee river. "How many wedding rings do you suppose are down there?" she asked when he leaned on the railing beside her.

"It probably depends on the rings. I doubt if many babes, no matter how disillusioned, toss their rings over as easily as their husbands. Not if the rings are set with diamonds or emeralds or such. They probably use a double from the 10-cent store for that big dramatic scene. That reminds me—"

He poked into a vest pocket and pulled out a wide platinum circle, filled with baguette diamonds; a buckle of rubies gave an effect of holding the ring together. "I hope

"How many wedding rings do you suppose are down there?" she asked.

"Nothing, thank you."

Rusty's invitation swept to his driver. "What about you?"

"Better not. Thanks just the same, mister." He moved to one of the slot machines, put in a coin and pulled the lever. Nothing happened.

Paige put out her sandaled toe and nudged the head of the Maltese cat. The taxi driver pulled the lever again and there still was no sound except that of his own mind marching onward with those of its predecessors.

Restwick Carnes pushed his quickly emptied glass across the bar. "I can't fly on one wing."

"Paige smiled at the puzzled innkeeper. "I think I will have some of that sherry." She put a snapping $5 bill before her place. "And 50 dimes."

The red-haired man did not look up from his drink. Although the proprietor did not make a ceremony of the wine, Paige knew he was pleased because the beaming smile came back to his face. She picked up her glass and her roll of dimes and went to the machine adjoining that of the thoroughly disgruntled driver.

"Lemons," he grunted. "A guy's think he was in the citrus belt."

"You just don't know how." Paige dropped a dime into her machine.

The air sang with the clatter of thin coins dropping like hail all around. They made little drifts in the slot and rolled onto the splintered wide-plank floor. The Maltese cat fled. Paige was smiling.

The taxi driver also. Even the innkeeper, or was it just a grimace of open-mouthed despair. Rusty alone was disinterested. His head remained bent. His eyes looked down into his drink. His third one.

The girl shook her head when the driver tried to give her handful of coins. "No. They're all yours. Wedding gift." She walked away from his spluttered remonstrance and sat down by Restwick Carnes.

"Are you about ready?"

"Certainly." He picked up his change and turned to her. The freckles were beginning to stand out on his face, which was slightly flushed. "I can't for the life of me see why you were jilted. Just as I said last night, you're really very pretty."

"You stupid fool," she whispered from a white-hot fury. "I wasn't jilted. Denison just went away and I never saw him again. My sweetheart is dead. Dead from shooting down Nazi planes, something you'd be too lily-livered to do. And now don't ever mention it to me again or I'll have less use for you than I do."

She slid from the stool and went out the door.

WORLD AT A GLANCE . . . . .

—By— Charles F. Stewart

WASHINGTON—Ardent believers in the merits of high tariff protection are thoroughly scandalized by evidences of a pretty favorable public reaction to Wendell Wilkie's recommendation that the United States take the lead in an international campaign for world-wide abandonment of all trade barriers, directly following the war's end.

There used to be, a generation or two ago, quite a sizable school of Yankee economic thought friendly to the free trade principle.

It gradually dimmed down, however, to a point where it appeared to be practically extinct. I suppose our country's industrial and commercial status was the important factor. It was an era during which all those American classes felt that they needed to be "protected."

Agriculture, being fairly able to take care of itself anyway, was more indifferent. Still, even the farmers weren't especially hostile to our schedule of import duties.

In short, free trade talk simply dried up, almost completely. The protectionists took it to be an utterly dead issue and ceased worrying about it, so much as a single cent's worth.

This state of affairs continued until Wendell Wilkie tore into the subject recently.

His initial declaration didn't excite the protectionists in the least. They figured that Wendell was trying to revive discussion of a question as old and forgotten as the extent of Noah's flood damage, and hadn't the slightest inkling that he could stir up a medium of interest in it.

Instead of that, darned if he hasn't scored appreciably!

I wouldn't go so far as to say that he's started an outright free trade movement. Yet he's getting his scheme into print and onto the radio. The protectionists are all over regarding it as pure frivol.

Wendell's fashion of expressing himself doubtless is an important consideration. He's got an argument and the capacity for putting enthusiasm into it. I imagine that some of its past proponents have been rather prosy with their presentation. Wendell's pungent.

Then, again, this juncture is appropriate—

Is there ANY way by which we can head off future wars? For whatever it may be worth, Wendell submits a plan.

The whole world would be delighted to hook up with us on an interchangeable trading basis. And it might pay US as well as the rest of the family of nations. It assuredly would tickle Canada and the Latin Americans, as well as the OLD world. Maybe it would cut the Axis aggression likewise, but, if it would ultimately help US incidentally, what of it?

Wendell's broad, mundane thesis is that what's desirable for the average individual is, collectively considered, desirable for all individuals.

That is to say— Suppose we've got a tariff system that enables some particular industry to scoop in all possible profits from the line it specializes on. THAT industry'll make barrels of money out of its monopoly, but it'll make it at the expense of others.

A Free-Trader
Maybe the others'll be foreign. But, in the LONG RUN, we'll get the reaction.

Wendell's dope extends, to tell the truth, on into infinity. The beauty of it is that the Democratic party traditionally was pro-free trade and the Republican party has been historically protectionistic.

All right— Wendell, a free trade Democrat, ran for president on a protectionistic Republican ticket. Now he wants to re-run as a Republican free-trader.

A FREE-TRADER, mind you! The whole ticket's wrong, if anything signifies.

Wendell Wilkie

STARS SAY—

For Monday, November 30
MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of outstanding achievements and brilliant coups, probably of such character as to merit public approval of community groups, political, secret or fraternal bodies. It is a place in the limelight of wide renown, and yet it is probable there may be some sudden visitation or collapse unless great prudence is exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of spectacular achievement or an extraordinary adventure of such dramatic nature as to propel them into the public eye, with wide acclaim and honors.

Groups, fraternities or political organizations join in the rush to support and shower pleasant rewards. Nevertheless there is sign of sudden downfall, estrangement or other frustrations unless care be taken not to act with impetuosity or emotionalism.

A child born on this day should have qualities of extraordinary worth for attaining public, community and secret assistance and acclaim, a high and honored position which it may have to fight hard to maintain.

"SONNY BOY" A-1
There are no songs like the old songs. Al Jolson will vouch for that. And Al will tell you, too, that you can please all the people all the time with the good, old sentimental ballads.

Since the world-famous "mammy-man" returned to the air on his new CBS Tuesday night variety program he has received thousands of letters from new and old fans. Hundreds of these letters are requests for Al to sing favorite numbers on his new airshow. But do they want the hep-cat live numbers? Do they crave rhumba music or sophisticated stuff? No sir, the majority of requests received are for Al to sing "Sonny Boy."

Requests for "Sonny Boy" came pouring in from all parts of the country following Al's return to the air on his new Tuesday night series.

"MR. DISTRICT ATTORNEY"
A gangster, in search of a hide-out from other criminals who want to "get" him, succeeds in having himself committed to an insane asylum and sets in motion chain of events which attracts the attention of "Mr. District Attorney." In "The Case of the Madhouse Murderer," to be heard Wednesday, December 2, on NBC at 9:30 p. m. But the gang invades his sanctuary, for they have a gunman incarcerated in another cell—to pull off the killing and then get off with an insanity plea. However, the plan is given an unexpected climax by Jay Jostyn, and his two aides, played by Vicki Vola and Len Doyle. Special music is composed and conducted by Peter Van Steeden.

ORSON WELLES
Patrolling great stretches of ocean in search of enemy submarines—the heroic job being done by our coastal command—is the theme of Orson Welles' "Ceiling Unlimited" drama Monday, 7:15 p. m., CBS. Welles describes the planes that fly the Atlantic, equipped with depth bombs slung in cradles under the wings. He gives a glimpse of the Coast Guard flyers and how they are able to laugh when the sun is barely up as they start on their grim vigil. In presenting the exciting picture of America's fight against Axis subs, Welles blends sound effects, dialogue and music, threaded together with his own narration.

RATIONING TOPIC
The first day of nationwide gasoline rationing is Tuesday, December 1, and Horace Heidt has a timely guest on his "Treasure Chest" program that night over NBC at 8:30 p. m. She's Harriet Palm, 20-year-old rural school teacher now working as a service station attendant, who will tell of some humorous incidents which developed with motorists not accustomed to handling the new ration cards and coupons. Other guests include Patsy Brogan, owner of a shop which sells clothes formerly used by film stars; Dan Miller, a typical "Good Humor" salesman; Buddy Twiss, sports commentator, and Mary Lou Velasco, dancing instructor. In addition to music by Horace Heidt and Frankie Carle's orchestra and soloists there'll be a quiz with war stamps as prizes.

CONNIE BOSWELL
Connie Boswell will do the vocalizing on the CBS Stage Door Conteen program Thursday, December 3, 9:30 p. m. and ork leader Benny Goodman the live in an all star bill which will include Louella Parsons, Robert Benchley and Eddie Green.

BASEBALL DEALS ON FIRE; MANY SWAPS VIEWED

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Two proposed baseball deals, one between the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics and the other between the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers, started to simmer today as the major league representatives prepared for the opening of their annual meetings tomorrow.

The most likely deal, which apparently had the approval of Manager Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox, would send infielder Don Kolloway and First Baseman Joe Kuhel to the Athletics for Outfielder Bob Johnson and First Baseman Dick Siebert.

Reports of the other deal, which may come to a boil later in the week, held that Branch Rickey had held that Branch Rickey was looking covetously on the several first basemen on the Cubs' roster to replace Dolph Camilli, who has announced his retirement.

The three Cub first sackers who might be involved in a swap for Medwick are Phil Cavarretta, Jimmy Foxx and Glen Russell.

COFFEE SUPPLY AMPLE TO MEET NEED IN COUNTY

Housewives who now need coffee may obtain it at their grocers', rationing having started at midnight Saturday. Each person who is more than 14 years of age is permitted to have one pound of coffee every five weeks.

Ration stamp No. 27 will be the first one taken by the grocer in exchange for coffee. Of course, the cash price is necessary, also.

There will be an ample supply of coffee available, grocers declared Monday providing every one doesn't go after his five weeks ration the first day of the first week of the rationing period. Families are asked to buy coffee only as they need it and to buy not more than one pound at a time.

Persons who are hoarding coffee may feel the sting of the law since at the end of the year an accounting of supplies in the home will be made when registration for ration book No. 2 is conducted.

Ration books showing an age of 14 or less are not valid for coffee purchases.

HANDiwork on the Gridiron

Five footballers, all with the same thought—get that ball!—are snapped leaving 'way up there' during a recent pro game in Cleveland. It was a pass and both sides were after the ball. The gent with his hand on it hung onto it for a good gain.

New Ohio State Team Leader to be Chosen

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30 — Ohio State's Western Conference champion Buckeyes will be feted tonight at a victory banquet before a capacity gathering of 600 in the Ohio State gymnasium.

Highlight of the evening's program will be presentation of gold footballs to the letter winners of the championship squad and the election of a new football captain for the 1943 campaign.

Retiring Captain George Lynn, a senior in school, but a junior in matter of football experience, has accepted a bid to play with Andy Kerr's Eastern team in the annual East-West Shrine game on the West Coast, New Year's Day. Lynn, in the accelerated wartime educational program, will graduate from Ohio State next August and immediately go into the Navy, as he is enlisted in Class V-7 of the Naval Reserve at present.

Likely candidates for the captain's post include regulars Lin Houston, Charlie Curi, Hal Dean, Bob Shaw, Don Steinberg and Paul Sarringhaus. All six of these juniors held down starting assignments with the champion Bucks during the 10 game schedule.

Lynn will not be alone in the East lineup as Right Halfback Les Horvath of Cleveland also accepted an offer to play in the contest immediately after Saturday's smashing 41-12 conquest of Iowa Pre-Flight. Bill Vickory of Toledo had

TIGER MENTOR STRESSES FAST BRAND OF BALL

Speed is being stressed by Coach Roy M. Black in his effort to develop a winning cage combination for Circleville's Red and Black. Lack of experience has prompted the Tiger mentor to use the fastest boys on his squad in trying to form a winner.

Although he has not yet announced the boys who will comprise the starting lineup at Lancaster Tuesday evening it is expected that the Dade brothers, Jim and Emmett, Dave Mader, Dud Smallwood and Freck Heath may be assigned to starting roles.

Other members of his squad include Valentine, Shea, Crawford, Young, Rutherford, Richards, Wolf, Sims, McCoy, Shaw, Lane, Moorehead, Taylor, Deming, Wells, Ernst, Lovensheimer and Barr.

Lancaster has a strong team, five lettermen being back in action.

DUROCHER NEXT TO FEEL AXA DEL BAKER OUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — Which major league baseball manager will be next to join the ranks of the unemployed?

Bucky Harris was the first to go since last season, and now can look any man in the eye without apologizing for the empty futility that goes with piloting the inept Washington Senators. Ossie Bluege having succeeded him. On Saturday Del Baker joined Harris among the ex-managers, and turned over the keys to the remains of the Detroit Tigers to Steve O'Neill, almost on the eve of the forthcoming baseball meetings at Chicago.

The firing of Baker was not unexpected, although there was no apparent reason for it. He did about as well with what he had as any man could do.

They have got to the point here in the vicinity of Ebbs field where they will virtually make book for you on Leo Durocher being the next to suffer a severe attack of managerial decapitation. They will tell that Durocher will last as head of the Brooklyn Dodgers just about until they hit their first slump next season. When he gets it, he probably will be the least surprised of them all. The 10-day player-manager contract which Branch Rickey gave him was the tipoff to his longevity in the saddle, unless he wins and keeps right on winning.

He might get fired for winning, too. Success has never been any ba. to a manager getting the gate in the majors. In some ways baseball is the most peculiar of all business enterprises.

You can take a thousand examples to prove that point. They'll fire a man for failing to succeed, when they know his successor can't do any better with the material handed to him.

BEARS RING UP TWENTY-THIRD LOOP VICTORY

By International News Service

As the mighty Chicago Bears rambled on to their 23rd consecutive victory, the Washington Redskins, who will meet the champions for the National Professional football league title December 13, boasted today of their best season in 11 years.

In dropping the season's windup in Detroit yesterday, the hapless Lions set a new low in league competition by losing to the Redskins, 15 to 3, for their 11th straight defeat and no victories to show for their pains.

The Bears, meanwhile, got off to a slow start in Chicago but mustered their offensive power in the second period to ring up three touchdowns and then go on to crush the Cleveland Rams, 47 to 0, for their 10th straight league victory of the season and their 23rd consecutive triumph.

While the Pittsburgh Steelers were blocking over the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Giants clinched third place in the eastern division standings with a decisive 21 to 7 victory over the Cardinals in New York.

Two long touchdown runs, a 52-yard punt return by Andy Tomasic in the second period and a 68-yard jaunt by George Gonda in the final quarter, gave the Steelers a 13 to 0 victory over the Dodgers at Pittsburgh.

The Green Bay Packers uncovered their record-breaking scoring combination of Cecil Isbell to Don Hutson in the first period at Philadelphia to defeat the Eagles, 7 to 0. Hutson broke at least three of his own records.

The touchdown, his 17th of the season, gave him a point total of 132 and 1,204 yards gained, and the two passes he caught in the game raised his total to 73.

Cricket, polo, golf, tennis, badminton and horse racing are the popular sports in Argentina, South America.

conference crown and a bid to represent their homeland in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas by beating Texas A & M, 12-6 while T.C.U. defeated Southern Methodist, 14-6 and Rice walloped Baylor 20-0.

Five Kicked Out
On the west coast Notre Dame outmanned a fighting U.S.C. eleven, 13-0 in a game in which fists as well as forward passes flew. Five players were ejected in this game for rough stuff. Stanford completed the rout of the pre-flight teams throughout the nation by soundly whipping the California division fliers, 28-13 in the other big game in that section.

Texas clinched the Southwestern

Tennessee earned a Sugar Bowl invite by disposing of Vanderbilt, 19-7 while Georgia pre-flight proved the only one of these outfits to have any success, upsetting the favored Crimson Tide of Alabama, 35-19.

County's Motorists Ready to Obey Gasoline Rationing Edict

FOUR GALLONS NOW LIMIT FOR AVERAGE DRIVER

Some "B", "C" Books May Be Recalled After Initial Period

REGISTERING CONTINUES

Sale Of Fuel Comes To Close At Midnight Except To Listed Car Owners

Circleville district automobile drivers were preparing Monday to participate in the government's gasoline rationing program which becomes effective at midnight, and continues very likely for the duration of the war.

Most of the district's automobile owners will be limited to four gallons of gasoline weekly, but hundreds of others will drive with greater allotments after receiving "B" and "C" books, which permit more mileage.

"B" books are issued to motorists who must drive more than 150 miles monthly for occupational purposes, while the "C" books are being granted to motorists who must travel more than 470 miles monthly in "preferred" driving.

May Lose Books

Pickaway county rationing board, which has been conducting supplemental registration at Memorial Hall during the last week, hinted Monday that many motorists who might have obtained "B" or "C" cards for their cars may find themselves using basic "A" cards at the expiration of the books they have already received. Rationing officials said that many supplemental books very probably have been issued to persons who are not entitled to them, but that correction will be made when they apply for renewals.

Rationing officials are operating a desk in Memorial Hall where motorists who have not obtained their basic "A" cards may apply Tuesday and Wednesday. After midnight Monday no autoist may buy gasoline without the "A" card. Many motorists did not apply for "A" cards when registration was conducted in the various schools of the county.

Further Registration

Additional supplemental registration will be conducted at Memorial Hall, registrars to appear at the hall between 6:30 p. m. and 9 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday to assist persons who for some reason have not been able to obtain their gasoline books. Monday registration is 1 to 9 p. m. "A" books may also be obtained Monday.

Rationers asked Monday that persons who will need gasoline this Spring for motor boats and next Summer for threshing outfits refrain from applying at this time. There is no need for their seeking rationing now. Time spent with them can be given to other persons. Any others who need seasonal gasoline should not apply before the need arrives.

Rationing board Monday issued an explanation of the various gasoline coupons and cards available. They follow:

"A" ration, (basic): Issued to private passenger car-owners; each coupon worth four gallons; coupons expire every two months; books expire July 21, 1943; "A" sticker is black.

Preference Listed

"B" ration, (supplemental): Issued in addition to "A" ration to those car owners who must travel more than 150 miles a month of occupational mileage; each coupon worth four gallons; coupons may be used any time during life of the book; book covers anywhere from three to 12 months; renewable; "B" sticker is green.

"C" ration, (supplemental): Issued in addition to "A" ration to car owners who must travel more than 470 miles a month of preferred mileage; each coupon worth four gallons; coupons and book expire in three months; renewable; "C" sticker is red.

"T" ration (transport): Issued to commercial and certain other service vehicles; each coupon worth five gallons; coupons and book expire after three months; renewable; "T" sticker is yellow.

Motorcycle Ration

"D" ration (motorcycle): Issued to private motorcycle owners; each coupon worth one and one-half gallons; coupons may be used anytime during life of book which varies and may be for entire year; no sticker; same "D" book used for basic, supplemental, fleet or official action, type being written on face of the book.

"E" ration (non-highway): Issued for non-highway equipment, where small amounts of gasoline are needed; each coupon worth one gallon; expires after three months; renewable; no sticker.

"R" ration, (non-highway): Issued for non-highway equipment where large amounts of gasoline are needed; each coupon worth five gallons; expires after three months; renewable; no sticker.

Special Ration: Issued for special transportation needs; issued in the form of B, C, D or T book, tailored to cover the specific number of gallons needed, and marked "special". Expires on a specified date, not exceeding six months after date of issuance no sticker.

Fleet ration, (passenger automobile): Issued to passenger cars in fleets of three or more; issued in form of "B" or "C" book; each coupon worth four gallons; "B" book covers from two to 12 months; "B" book holder must display regular "B" sticker; "C" book expires after three months; renewable; "C" book holder must display regular "C" sticker.

Official ration (passenger automobiles): Issued to government owned or leased cars; issued in form of "B" or "C" book; each coupon worth four gallons; "B" book covers from two to 12 months; "B" book holder must display regular "B" sticker; "C" book expires after three months; renewable; "C" book holder must display regular "C" sticker.

private in the Marine Corps, tells this story on Herbert Hoover. They travelled together through Europe extensively about one year before the war started, and during the trip, Hoover was given an honorary degree by a European university. With the degree was presented a sword.

Hoover looked at the sword a little sheepishly, tried to figure out what he should do with it, finally said:

"Just think, Paul, I have been commander-in-chief of the United States Army and Navy. And till now, never have I donned a military uniform, still less a sword. So now how am I to use this sword, especially since no belt has been given with it?"

"Oh," replied Smith, "just hitch it on to your suspenders and nobody will notice it."

ADMIRAL DARLAN

Cooperation with Admiral Darlan continues to cause controversy inside the Cabinet and among the war chiefs.

Admiral Darlan's support saved priceless time and even more priceless lives. But it had its difficulties. Many members of the European underground which had been working with us against the Nazis in occupied countries threw up their hands and got exremely skeptical about playing ball with us in the future.

However, there is definite evidence that Darlan, though an opportunist, several months ago was ready to cooperate with the United States if there was any promise that we would really set up a second front.

Now that we have used Darlan, some people want to throw him overboard immediately. But the weakness of Hitler is that he breaks agreements overnight. Our strength is that we don't break agreements. However, we are now in the dilemma of breaking a tacit agreement with the anti-Vichy group made earlier, or breaking with Darlan now.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Otto N. Frankfurter, brother of Justice Felix Frankfurter, has resigned from the Treasury's Procurement Division and returned to private business in New York.

Texas' Lyndon Johnson, proposing a FDR that Maury Maverick be appointed head of a Mexican-American defense commission, said: "Would you mind calling up Sumner Welles at the State Department and asking him to see Maverick?" "Oh," said the President, throwing up his hands, "Sumner just wouldn't understand a man like Maury."

FAIRROW RELEASED

Clifford Fairrow, 47, of Chillicothe, arrested several weeks ago for driving when intoxicated and fined $100, was released Sunday after he paid $40 of his fine and gave bond for the remaining $24.7. He had served out the rest of the fine in county jail.
